Coalition for Clean Air - Always in Fashion

I checked out The Coalition for Clean Air's 4th annual eco-fashion show fundraiser on Thursday. The sassy runway models? About 20 different public officials from the LA area. By far the most entertaining was Burbank Mayor Todd Campbell. He took the runway by storm - jumped, tangoed, somersaulted - all in the name of clean air.

I had a good ole time chatting it up with some of BTC's designers who were featured in the show. From left to right in the photo, Undesigned model/ballerina Caitlin, me, Debbie Brosenne of Taxi CDC, and Carol Young of Undesigned.

The show's finale included a wedding dress designed and presented by, Project Runway's Andrae Gonzalo (don't have TV so don't know much about this guy).

The show was definitely a wacky, funny crowd pleaser, and I had a great time putting my hands together for a coalition that focuses on "reducing pollution, protecting natural resources, and strengthening the California environmental community." Way to go eco-designers, Stewart + Brown, Undesigned, TaxiCDC, and Indigenous Designs for donating to the cause!
